

The Kentucky Gazette's KENTUCKY AGRICULTURE ROOTED IN VERSATILITY

Advertising Opportunity

Kentucky agriculture is a huge segment of the state's economy. Nearly a half million Kentuckians in every county are employed in a job that is directly or indirectly tied to agriculture. Kentucky agriculture may be run by small operators and families, but it's big business.

With this in mind, The Kentucky Gazette will highlight agriculture's role in the commonwealth's economy and will look at ag policy as it relates to economic development, land protection, the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, and more in a special September 2026 edition.

The Kentucky Gazette's targeted publications draw an audience of Kentucky's opinion leaders and decision makers.

Get your message in front of these readers – people who matter to you, your business, and your clients.

It's simple. Place a four-color, full- or half-page ad in this focused edition. Your message will put The Kentucky Gazette's readers – the state's top opinion-leaders and decision-makers – in a position to help you with your work.

In addition to the print edition, which reaches an audience of 1,500 high-impact readers, "Kentucky Agriculture" will be posted to The Kentucky Gazette's website (www.KentuckyGazette.com) as a downloadable PDF and will be sent with our TKG in Brief e-newsletter subscribers at no additional fee.
